Department of English

The Department of English at Foundation University Rawalpindi Campus, one of the most dynamic and vibrant departments, offers an exciting and conducive to learning environment, and is supported by highly professional, local and foreign qualified, experienced and dynamic faculty. English programmes have been a part of Foundation University Islamabad ever since its inception over a decade ago. The English programmes take learners from broad knowledge base to indepth concept understanding as they move up the tiers into segregated streams. Besides offering academic programmes, the department also caters to developing English language skills of the graduate and undergraduate students of other departments of the university including Arts and Media, Management Sciences, Electrical Engineering, Psychology and Software Engineering.

The department enjoys cordial relationship with other counterparts and faculty in the twin cities as well as invites senior academics and researchers from around the country to deliver lectures or conduct seminars on various topics. The students are also actively encouraged to participate and present in seminars and conferences around the country.
